Opponents of the clear water scheme and of the recommendation of the clear water committee that the Roberts Filtering Company Install the Jirst filter for Manchester were completely nonphissed by the resolution. It had been generally understood that the assembly would be asked to act upon the ordinance anking the contract with the one firm, and there were those present who were in a mood to argue for competitive bids. The resolution of Chairman Jones relieved the situation and put it so plainly up to the council that there was nothing to do but to sit quietly and wait for the bids from the various concerns who are seeking to erect in the city a plant that will give pure and elear water to every man who now pays for a liquid that at times leaves a muddy taste in the mouth.

Just One Offender Before Him.

A record was made in the court of Police Justice John Jeter Crutchfield yesterday, for before the man who presides over the coart of first resort, there was only one prisoner.

William Stovens, a negro, was charged with being a suspicious character, was placed under security, and a few minutes later was released after a good man had stood sponsor for him.

This completed the docket. The police had had an easy time of it on Holy Thursday, and as a consequence of this vacation the Police Court pen was ompty.

But when Justice Crutchfield ascended the bench, heard the case, convicted the prisoner, and went back to his office, he was confronted with a civil docket containing one hundred and eighteen cases.
